FAIR HOUSING TESTING: Community Action to Expose Housing Discrimination

led by Matthew Oglander

Weds. June 6 12:00pm 25 Van Ness Ave. Rm. 800

How can we know if property managers and real estate agents give everyone an equal opportunity to rent or buy a home? Fair Housing Testing is used to gather information about how different people are treated when they pursue housing opportunities, and the information they receive. Differences in their experiences may indicate discrimination due to race, national origin, disability, or other personal characteristics.

Topics will include:

- How Fair Housing Testing works & why it matters
- San Francisco's history in Fair Housing law
- How you can get involved in Fair Housing Testing

Matthew Oglander is an investigator and mediator with the San Francisco Human Rights Commission.
